

Home Care Careers—Newsletter Content

Audience: Potential Job Seekers

Short version:

Work with purpose and get good benefits in home care!

If you are looking for your first job, a new career, or a flexible schedule, home care may be for you. Home care supports older adults, people of all ages with disabilities and people with behavioral and mental health needs.

Home care jobs pay more than minimum wage. They come with good benefits and free training. Choose who you support. Set the hours and schedule that work for both of you.

These jobs include free, personalized coaching every step of the way — from the application process to finding clients and more.

The need for more home care jobs is growing fast in Oregon. Learn more and apply at OregonHomeCareJobs.com.

Share the opportunity with others who might be interested.

Long version:

Apply today: Work with purpose and get good benefits in home care

Home care makes a difference in someone's life. It gives you the flexibility you need to live yours.

If you are looking for your first job, a new career, or want a flexible schedule, home care may be for you.

Home care supports:

- older adults
- people of all ages with disabilities
- people with behavioral and mental health needs.

Home care careers come with good benefits including overtime and paid time off, health care and retirement savings options. These meaningful jobs pay more than minimum wage. You may be able to earn more per hour based on the number of hours you work or the certifications you get.

Benefits include free trainings to grow your skills and teach you how to provide health-related tasks the person you support may need. Plus, you'll have access to free, personalized coaching every step of the way — from the application process to finding clients and more.

Home care supports people at home and in the community with tasks like dressing, bathing, eating, transportation and other daily tasks.

The need for more home care jobs is growing fast in Oregon. Learn more and apply at OregonHomeCareJobs.com.

Please also share the opportunity with others who might be interested.